While the first day's collection was $2,104.65, it only presented a total of 91 pledges cards with only 25 of the workers making a report. The average per worker was $23.12. The workers turning in the largest number of pledge cards were Messrs. Cohen and Rafferty of team 4, the number being 27, or nearly one-third of the entire number.

The auditing committee, consisting of Samuel Stern, John B. Kearney and Charles R. O'Connor, received and audited the returns and turned them over to Treasurer Cornelius Hume.

It was announced last evening that there will be no supper for the workers on Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, but that the headquarters will be open in the forenoon and from 3 in the afternoon until 9 in the evening for the convenience of those workers who desire to make some calls during the day. It was thought wise to do this for the fact that several donors would be at their home Thanksgiving and that those desiring to work could find it more convenient than making calls on other days.

Sheriff Sells a Motorcycle.

To satisfy a judgment of $60.46, issued in county court against Oda Rich in favor of Grady & Farrell, Sheriff Shultis sold at public auction at the court house this morning an Indian motorcycle to Raymond Van Buren of this city for $50.

OTHER PEOPLE'S CHILDREN AIDED

County Agent Bruyn Reviews Year's Work in Straightening Out the Kinks in Lives of Child Dependents—Purpose of This Agency.

The work done for dependent children of the county of Ulster during the past year and its effect not only for the future but at the present time forms an interesting chapter in the county's history and is impressively told in the annual report of Miss Gertrude Bruyn, county agent for dependent children, which was read by Miss Bruyn before the board of supervisors at Tuesday night's session.

Miss Bruyn's report was as follows:

In March, 1912, the Agency for Dependent Children for this county was established by an agreement between the Board of Supervisors and the County Committee of the State Charities Aid Association. At that time an agent was appointed to carry out the terms of this agreement, and since that time the services of this agent have been at the disposal of the supervisors in connection with cases coming to their attention. It has been found frequently that if the circumstances of a family of children for whom care is asked are looked into that some disposal other than the commitment to an institution is not only possible but desirable. The agent stands ready to make such investigations upon notification, and report to such people who refer the cases. Since this agency was established by this agreement between the board of supervisors and the county committee, it stands to reason that each party has a definite place to fill. The superintendents of the poor, both of the county and city, have always stood ready to co-operate as well as the supervisors of the different towns. It is useless to state, I suppose, that the part the supervisors play is the very important role of appropriating $900 which makes up the salary of the agent, and fifteen dollars a month traveling expenses.

Aims and Objects.

The part that the county committee plays has been to act as an organization whose executive secretary is the county agent. She meets with the county committee, reporting on the cases, acts out their bidding in regard to them. Aside from acting in this advisory committee, the county committee is always very prompt in responding for any calls for funds. The balance of the budget—that is the amount over and above the $900 appropriation from the county which is necessary to carry on the work of the agency in an efficient manner—is raised by dues and donations by the county committee.

In trying to show the purpose of this agency for dependent children I should say that the purpose is five fold:

1. Discovers the whereabouts of responsible relatives, including deserting fathers.
2. Finds employment for able-bodied men so that families otherwise destitute can be kept together.
3. Secures medical aid for the sick.
4. Helps officials to place physical and mental defectives in proper state institutions.
5. Helps boys and girls who come from homes of poverty, vice and misfortune to become self-supporting and self-respecting men and women.

Statistical Report.

Just a few words in regard to a short statistical report. On October 1, 1915, there were 44 public charges. During the year from October 1, 1915, to October 1, 1916, 50 more became public charges. Also during the same year 37 ceased to be public charges, leaving a total of 57 charges on the books of the county, representing 11 townships of the county besides the city of Kingston. It seems as if at a first glance 50 new public charges during the year is a great number, but when one stops to think of it, that is not so large when compared with the number of families investigated during the year. The number of cases investigated and disposed of through the office of the county agent was 95, representing about 235 children. 50 children out of these 235 is not such a large percentage. The agent in the course of the year recommended 59 children as acceptance for public charges, so you see she was only refused in the case of 9.

There were 48 children reported as not in need after a thorough investigation had been carried out. Outdoor relief had been given to 207 children, thereby meeting the need of the family without committing them. Eight children have been sent to state institutions directly from their homes.

Now, in regard to the classification of cases which were investigated! The largest number were those classified as improper guardianship, their number being 34. Next came destitution cases, numbering 19; delinquency, 17; mental defectives, 7; desertion, 6; physically defective, 4; and so on down through illegitimacy, motherless children, a case of one homeless boy, and one unemployment.

How Children Are Cared For.

Perhaps one of the most stirring occasion. They are the most satisfactory cases to work with, because of the fact that they almost always measure up to what is expected of them.

The agency, the supervisors, the public in general appreciate the fact that primarily the object of the association is to care for the welfare of the children of the county. However, the financial aspect of the proposition ought not to be overlooked. The criticism has been offered that besides the county agent taking $900 out of the treasury of the county, she increases the list of public charges, thereby drawing still more from the public funds. This criticism must be answered by the argument that the agent at the same time she is taking children out of homes of destitution and asking public charges to pay for them temporarily, she is also planning to take children already public charges out of the list and placing them permanently in free homes where they will no more be an expense to the county, and also where there will be no more possibility of their ever costing the county or state anything in the line of criminal procedure and such.

Do We Want More of the "Jukes"?

I would like to refer you to Mr. Dugdale's book on the Jukes, if you are interested in tracing out what one family and its descendants can cost a certain community through its criminal courts and penal institutions just because a family with its delinquent and defective children was not nipped in the bud and the children given custodial care before any harm was done. To segregate children of improper guardians and bring them up to be self-respecting men and women is a task of the county agent.

It is safe to estimate that at least $2 dollars a year is saved the county on each child ceasing to be a public charge; that would make an actual amount during the past year of $1872. Besides this $175 were collected by the agent toward the board of public charges so that the public funds were reimbursed to this extent. This makes a total of $2,047 which the county agent has enabled the officials to save.

Private Subscriptions Not Large in Aggregate.

If it were not for Admiral Higginson, president of the county committee, and his subcommittee an extra amount above the supervisors' appropriation would not have been possible. The actual traveling expenses the past year amounted to $72 more than the $180 provided by the appropriation. This had to come from private funds and donations. There was the telephone bill to be met of $77 which had to be met by dues and donations. Besides this there are innumerable expenses such as printing, stationery, stenographer's salary, which come up to increase our budget a great deal and over and above the $900 appropriation. The receipts from private subscriptions for the year ending October 1, 1916 were $694.32. This includes $170 which were raised by efforts of the agent through public entertainment. While the agent is of course ready and willing at all times to help along the work in which she is engaged she has not time at her disposal to supplement the deficiency of the county performances in order that the children of the county may not suffer. It can be easily seen, however, that the work of raising the approximate $600 of the budget over and above the $900 appropriated is quite an additional burden upon the work of the committee and the agent. If only the telephone bill, and stenographer's expenses, amounting to $500, could be included in our county appropriation the agent would be relieved from some distressing moments in regard to the means to carry on her work.

The powers that be, for instance, the president of our committee, will not always be one who stands as ready to come to the assistance of the Agency as he who has stood by us for the past three years. It seems only right that we should be looking ahead and planning because if anything should happen the work for dependent children for Ulster county would surely have to be discontinued because of sheer starvation. Enough for the financial report!

Co-operative For The Public Good.

Besides accomplishing this very vital part of raising funds, the county committee does some additional work. For instance there is the committee on the County Alms House, the City Alms House, the Industrial Home and the county jail. Each of these institutions are visited by their committee and a report is made. The cooperation with various agencies the past year has been very close. Mrs. MacMillan, in the Bureau of Social Service; Mr. Van Orden and Mr. Edmondson have always stood ready to both refer cases and have cases referred to them; Dr. Ashley of the Middletown State Hospital has been very kind in sending to the city a physician once a month to hold a clinic for nervous disorders where the agent may have any possibly feeble-minded children examined.

In conclusion the agent wishes to state that the year in general has been most successful and she hopes that the board of supervisors will agree that the dependent children of Ulster county are being looked after in as thorough a manner as possible.

COTTEKILL.

Cottekill Nov. 28.—Mrs. Maria M. Broadhead, who for the past year has made her home with her son, Vessel, on the Cottekill road, was taken seriously ill Sunday afternoon. DuBois and is the oldest one of a family consisting of six brothers and two sisters both of whom are dead, as well as are also two brothers. Her many friends hope for a speedy recovery.

DANCE AT ARMORY THANKSGIVING DAY

Kingstonians should greet their friends, who will be home for the holiday tomorrow, at the popular concert and dances which will feature McEnelly's Famous Singing Orchestra in the state armory. These two big Thanksgiving dances held under the auspices of Company M, are something new in Kingston. Never before has a matinee dance been held in Kingston with such an attraction as the McEnelly Orchestra. The matinee dancing will start promptly at 2 o'clock and continue four solid hours, during which period the many who contemplate attending this novel dance will certainly have their Thanksgiving meal digested and then be in condition to return for the evening dance after their second hearty meal of the day. Dancing at night will follow the grand concert which will be rendered from 8 to 9 o'clock. It is a foregone conclusion that all who attend these dances will have a good time and it would be hard to find anyone who would not enthuse over the quality of the music which will be dispensed by these musical stars and soloists.

They do not merely play a piece, but render it with an individuality and completeness which were never attempted by any other musical organization. Consensus of opinion everywhere is that they are the leaders of all orchestras playing in the larger towns and cities of the east today. During their concert they introduce the latest in overtures, marches and descriptive pieces interspersed with trombone, flute, xylophone and piccolo solos. The sweet singing of E. J. McEnelly is also a feature. When it comes to dance music they play the latest musical hits with a snap and rhythm that is irresistible. Here is no orchestra that holds the attention and pleases the dancers and lookers-on like the McEnelly and you will miss it if you don't reserve Thursday, November 30, to attend this event.

WAR AT A GLANCE

With a lull in the fighting on the western and eastern battle fronts, the most noteworthy war developments of the past twenty-four hours have occurred in the Balkans.

That the Rumanians fear the early loss of Bucharest is shown by the fact that the government has been removed to Jassy.

A great attempt is being made by the Russians to check the pressure of the German Allies in the interior of Rumania. Russian troops operating in the Carpathian mountains have begun a strong offensive movement against the Austro-German lines and have apparently made small gains. However, they have failed to check the joint drive of Von Falkenhayn and Von Mackensen.

One the Wallachian Plain the Rumanians continue to fall back.

Furious strokes are being delivered by the Allies around Monastir in Macedonia.

The claims of the German and French war offices in this zone of operations conflict. The French claim the capture of important mountain positions but Berlin declares that all attacks by the Entente troops were repulsed.

Northwest of Monastir a new engagement has developed. The French are making desperate efforts in that region to capture a mountain fortress from its German and Bulgarian defenders. This eminence is known as Hill No. 1,248.

AMERICA'S ELECTRICAL WEEK

Dec 2 - Dec 9

And now returns the day of retrospect. We pause, with grateful hearts, to survey a year of abundant harvest, of achievement, happiness and peace. And from its cherished memories we turn to the future, our bosoms filled with the hope of continued prosperity, progress and plenty.

Much of the comfort and cheer which have been ours during the past year has been brought to us by man's greatest servant—Electricity. It has brightened our homes, lifted our burdens, turned the wheels of manufacture, provided our transportation. To man, woman and child alike, it has freely given its blessings. For its aid in a hundred thousand ways, we may be truly thankful.

REQUIEM MASS FOR POLISH PATRIOT

Immaculate Conception Parish Honors the Memory of Henryk Sien-kiewicz, Poland's World-Famous Novelist and Patriot—Tribute by Father Lesniewski Affects Congregation to Tears.

This morning the Rev. Francis Lesniewski, rector of the Immaculate Conception Church, celebrated the requiem mass for the soul of Henryk Sienkiewicz, who died on November 16, in Vevey, Switzerland. After mass, at the altar, the rector, in touching words, described the merits of the late leader, Henryk Sienkiewicz, his great love for the Catholic religion and for the Polish nation. The great gathering of the faithful were in tears at the mention that Henryk Sienkiewicz was their greatest leader who in this most critical period of Poland was the sole comforter, the distributor of food to the thousands of starving Polish children, mothers and widows. In him we lost the greatest patriot and father of our country, said Father Lesniewski. He is known to all the world. He was devoted to Poland and its ordinary king. Kings die and their memory is forgotten, but he defended his country, not with sword but with words of justice. He is through his historical and world-famous writings that Poland is known to the world and will be known as the nation most unjustly treated by its enemies—Germans, Austrians and Russians.

This evening there will be at the Immaculate Conception school hall a patriotic tribute to the memory of Henryk Sienkiewicz. The program will consist of patriotic songs by the choir, declamations and addresses. The Rev. Francis Lesniewski will give an address on the life, writings and the main ideals of Henryk Sienkiewicz. Rev. Stanislaw Tenciewicz, Rector of Perpetual Help Church of Hudson, N. Y., will speak of Henryk Sienkiewicz as the great leader of the Polish Nation. Henryk Sienkiewicz was 71 years old. Among the living sons of Poland, Henryk Sienkiewicz held the first place. Since the publication of his first novel, "Fire and Sword," in which he revived the ancient wars of Poland's greatness he has stood as the central figure of Poland. Henryk Sienkiewicz was widely and best known in America for his powerful "Quo Vadis," a historical novel of the time of Nero. This was written in 1896 and aroused an interest throughout the world. Also well known in this country are his "Without Dogma," "Tillogy," "Pan Michael," "The Knight of the Cross," "The Deluge," "The Deluge," and "Pan Michael"—novels of the Cossack, Swedish and Turkish invasions of Poland—had ever the strongest appeal as they are a living lesson in true patriotism. His works were translated in 35 different languages.

Henryk Sienkiewicz was born on May 4, 1845 in Wola Okrzejska, Province Siedlecka, Russian Poland, of parents of noble, cultured and distinguished family. He was educated entirely in his native land, finishing his academic training at the University of Warsaw. The bloodshed and suffering he witnessed in Poland had a great effect on the books he wrote in later years, most of which deal with the tragedy of Polish life. He traveled throughout Poland from end to end learning to know his land and her people. He also traveled extensively in Africa, England, France, Spain, Greece, Switzerland and the East. In 1877 he came to the United States extensively traveling and wrote his famous letters from California. In 1915 Henryk Sienkiewicz signed a protest against the Russian influence being brought to bear on the Polish schools. For this he was ordered a prisoner in his apartments in Warsaw. In the same year his fame reached the triumph, when the Nobel Prize for literature was awarded to him. The following year he declined the nomination to the Duma, stating he would never enter political life. He also was an honorary member of the Russian Academy of Sciences, a rare distinction for a Pole.

Since the beginning of the great European War, Sienkiewicz had lived in Switzerland. Since the war, the great Pole had done much for his suffering countrymen. The author of "Quo Vadis," known as the greatest modern author of religious and historical novels devoted all his time to the aid of the Polish sufferers. He was president of the General Relief Committee for victims of the war in Poland and a friend and fellow worker with Paderewski on behalf of his native land. His letters to the Polish Victims' Relief Fund Committee and to the American Red Cross at Washington aroused widespread sympathy for the thousands of Poles suffering in the present war. Although the Polish nation lost in him their greatest leader and patriot, his writings will powerfully help them to regain their country—the free Poland.

Absentminded George Dyer.
At Clifford's inn lived George Dyer, who lived in history chiefly as the man who walked out of Ella's house in Colebrook row and into the New river, neck deep, and had to be revived by Lamb and his sister with hot brandy. Lamb was never tired of relating the incident. Dyer, an inoffensive, absent-minded old scholar, had Leigh Hunt's friendship as well as Lamb's, and the other secretist has told how, calling on Dyer in answer to an invitation to breakfast, it was to find no butter, no knives and no spoon on the table. Dyer was so wedded to life in the inn that he wedded his laundress too.—London Spectator.

CLAY LODGE GAVE A SPLENDID SHOW

Capacity Audience Laughed to the Limit at Funny Offerings of Odd Fellows' Minstrels—Musical Program a Delightful Feature of Entertainment.

"Laugh Till You Cry," was advertised on the posters, but the eight hundred people who attended the minstrels of C. S. Clay Lodge of Odd Fellows at Pythian Hall Tuesday evening needed not a hint of such advice so rapidly and effectively did the smile-provoking material come from the black-faced comedians. The hall was crowded and many were refused admission. This was the first entertainment of the kind undertaken by the members of the lodge and proved a great success.

So original and amusing were the end men's costumes and so palpitating the first song by the chorus that the minstrels got a firm grip on their audience at the start. L. D. McLane was interlocutor while the black ones on the end of the half circle were Frank Hyatt, alias Snow; Frank Myers, as Sambo; P. Crouthamel, Tambo; and William Stevenson, as Bones Snow. Sambo, Tambo and Bones between the musical selections kept up a continuous fusillade of witty remarks the local folks punctured thereby being given no sympathy by the audience. In the circle were H. B. Harris, George Kent and A. Rich.

When the real of laughter at the first jokes had died away, Mr. Harris sang "Rubinon Crusoe" and scored a hit. A. Rich, who has a clear tenor voice, followed with "The End of a Perfect Day." H. B. Crouthamel, just to show there were no pie-Rumanian sentiments among the entertainers, recited "Die Borelei." "He's in the Jail House Now" was so enlivening that Sambo were given several salutes of hearty applause. "Mother Macree," the sweet Irish melody, was sung in a clear tenor by William Williams. "I'm Going Back to You," with charming local variations was the final chorus of the minstrel party.

Miss Eva McLane opened the second part of the program with a piano selection. The Odd Fellows' Quartet, comprising Messrs. Rich, Crouthamel, Britt and Britt, then sang a selection which evoked much applause. A clever one-act comedy under the title of "The Troubles of a Traveling Salesman" depicted with successful results, the embarrassing situation confronting every traveler of the commercial road. Frank Meyers as the butler, L. D. McLane as the book agent and A. B. Crouthamel in a characterization of the housewife fell into such funny predicaments in such a natural way that this sketch was very popular.

When the Rubens' Symphony Orchestra came upon the stage there was grave danger of several in the audience falling victim to heart failure, due to over exertion of the visible muscles. Providence stood by, however, when the stress became over-creater by the "Symphonies" strains issued from some eight experienced voices through the intricate windings of conchobones. The selections given by the "Hayseeders" very much resembled the annual rehearsal of a village band at a Fourth of July celebration.

To Prof. H. Norman Taylor is due credit for the high-calibre entertainment given for it was largely through his efforts as instructor that the recruits were obtained. Though there was little room for the more elaborate stage dancing after the program wound up at evening, long to be remembered.

Fearless Queen Sophie.
In 1880, when the combined armies of Victor Emmanuel and Garibaldi attacked Gaeta, Queen Sophie of Naples conducted the defense, her husband, Francis II., being utterly unnerve. Most of her time was spent upon the ramparts, where she remained during the hottest fire. She was absolutely without fear. Once when a bomb burst in the room where she was dining with her husband and his suit she walked to a mirror that hung on the wall and, noticing that her hair was whitened by the plaster the bomb had scattered, remarked: "What a pity powdered heads are out of fashion! White hair suits me admirably."

Don't Write Poetry.
"Don't write poetry unless you can't help it," says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.
And often when you think you can't help it, it's well to consult a doctor.—Toledo Blade.

ROALD AMUNDSEN

HOPES TO FLY OVER NORTH POLE.

New York, Nov. 29.—Roald Amundsen, the Norwegian explorer, expects to fly over the North Pole in 1918. He made this statement on his arrival here from Copenhagen. His visit to New York at this time is for the purpose of purchasing equipment and supplies for the expedition. While here he will study aeroplane construction and flying, although he already holds an aviator's license. Amundsen says he will drift as far as possible toward the pole in the polar current, but when blocked by ice, will use his hydroaeroplane.

Not a Born Forger.
The indorsement of checks is a very simple thing, but, as the following story will show, it also has its difficulties.

A woman went into a bank where she had several times presented checks drawn to Mrs. Lucy B. Smith. This time the check was made to the order of Mrs. M. J. Smith, M. J. were her husband's initials. She explained this to the paying teller and asked what she should do.
"Oh, that is all right," he said, "just indorse it as it is written there."
She took the check and after much hesitation said, "I don't think I can make an M like that."

Throne Jewels.
In the "gold palace" at Windsor castle, one of England's chief royal palaces, is the gold tiger's head taken from Tipu Sahib's throne in 1799. It is life size, and the teeth and eyes are of rock crystal. Another relic captured at the same time is the jeweled bird called the uma, shaped like a pigeon, with a peacock tail. The feathers blaze with precious stones, and a great emerald hangs from its breast. According to an old Indian legend, who ever owns this bird will rule India.

KINGSTON, N. Y., NOV. 29, 1916.

The Freeman will not be published on Thanksgiving Day.

Something to be thankful for—a holiday! That is perhaps the outstanding characteristic that Thanksgiving possesses for modern times, when the simplicity that marked the lives of its founders is only a memory, and a dim and distant memory at that. At present prices, the turkey is also in danger of joining a lot of other traditions, with which this peculiarly American festival used to be invested. Thanksgiving Day never falls on Sunday and offers one certain day in the week upon which the daily routine can be escaped, or missed, as the case may be. This year, as on the two last occasions, we can express thankfulness that we are not at war with any power outside of revolution-torn Mexico. As for the rest of it, the proclamations of the President and Governor, both heartfelt and with sound political reasons for being so, are commended to the attention of readers. Besides such marking of the day, there is always left to the philosophic mind the enjoyment that comes with the serene contemplation of the hopes and memories which inevitably chase themselves across the surface of this brief breathing-space on the busy calendar of American events. In addition to this enjoyment, there is the indoor and outdoor recreation offered in such variety and volume the length and breadth of the land, all contributing to a sufficiency of those things for which due thankfulness should be extended.

Those who dance must pay the fiddler, and when it comes to the State of New York's contribution in return for the music furnished at Washington, the Southern leaders of the national orchestra must find the income tax a most satisfactory medium for settlement. Of the gigantic totals in receipts and the number of taxpayers, the tremendous proportion born by New York State stands out even greater than that of last year, over whose income tax revenues the present fiscal year has shot so far. Of the 3,652 persons in the country who paid an income tax, 73,499, more than one-fifth, are residents of New York State and of the combined corporation and personal income tax revenues, aggregating $121,327,232.61, one-fourth was paid by corporations and residents of New York city alone. In view of these figures and the heavy share of the burden of taxation falling to the Empire State, it is easy to understand the extravagance of the Sixty-fourth Congress, an extravagance that is likely to be renewed during its closing session this winter. Southern Democrats in control have operated a gigantic pork barrel from which their districts have been given generous slices—all benefited being happy in the knowledge that New York State is paying approximately a quarter of the expense. With the income tax susceptible to an increase any time greater revenues are needed to keep pace with growing extravagances. Federal administration leaders will soon be wondering at their own moderation. Twenty million dollar nitrate plants, Southern river and harbor development and Federal buildings for every jerk-water town in the Sunny South are now assured in plenty and the Congressmen in control may well say, Haug the expense—so long as New York foots a fourth of every bill. Let us be thankful New York does not have to pay the whole shot.

A State-wide boycott is being launched by the Weights and Measures Department in New York city and the State Conference of Mayors to discourage the purchase of eggs until prices come down. Proponents of this scheme assert that it lies the only hope of breaking the speculative market to which present high prices of eggs are ascribed. It is the annual uproar and the cutting of official capers in response to the hysterical demand of a few newspapers that "something be done." Yet when the situation is carefully gone over, is the increase in the price of eggs as great in proportion as the increase in the prices of other food products? And if the increase in egg prices is greater, what good, if any, will the boycott bring about? It is admitted that methods of getting eggs to market are inefficient and wasteful. The same is true of most other food-stuffs. Testimony before the Wicks Committee shows the selling and re-selling of eggs in carload lots for weeks before these eggs reach the retail market. If a remedy is to be devised, here is the place it should be applied, and care and thought should mark the adoption of such preventive measures. The boycott at best is only temporary in its effect and accomplishes no permanent good whatever, as was shown in its hysterical application to the beef market only a few years ago. Let us be thankful we don't have to eat eggs.

Worse Yet.

During a social evening a woman sang for the guests. One of the guests turned to a meek-looking little man sitting at his side and said: "How awful! Who can she be?" "That," replied the man addressed, "is my wife." "Oh, I beg your pardon!" stammered the other. "She's really a—I know she'd sing beautifully if she made a better selection of her music. Who do you suppose wrote that song?" "I am the author of that song," replied the meek-looking little man.—Argonaut.

The Gentle Passion.

William Gillette, the actor, was showing George H. Broadhurst, the playwright, over his country estate. They arrived at the sheepfold, and at sight of their master the woolly inmates came bleating to the bars. "She how the little things love me, George!" said the owner proudly.

"Love—thunder!" said Broadhurst. "They come to you because they are hungry and they think you are going to feed them."

George said to Gillette, "when you have reached a certain age that passes for love."—Saturday Evening Post.

News to Her.

"The what?"

"The food. You've read about the food, and the ark landing on Mount Ararat, surely?"

"Good mister," she returned, "I ain't seen a paper for three days."—Harper's.

The subject of consolidation of the rural schools, and the township system were brought up and will be more fully discussed at the next meeting.

In the spring the club will have screens placed in the windows and the doors of the school house. One mother, who has moved out of the district is quite interested in the work that she drives quite a distance to attend the meetings.

At the close of each meeting refreshments are served and a social half hour is enjoyed. There is a good field for a club of this kind to be of real assistance to a school.

Board of Supervisors Hears of Needs of Two County Institutions And Enacts Much Local Legislation—Highway Construction and Tax Items.

The annual reports of the board of managers of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital and Miss Gertrude Bruyn, county agent for the care of dependent children, supplemented by an earnest appeal by Admiral Francis J. ## Report of County Agent.

Admiral Higginson Talks Facts.

Admiral Francis J. Higginson, president of the Ulster County Branch of the State Charities Aid Association, which has been paying by private contributions the expenses of stenographer for the county agent and all other expenses incurred above the appropriation made by the board of supervisors, was granted the privileges of the floor and spoke earnestly. He said: "Miss Bruyn's work is a good, quiet work carried on without any ostentation whatever and it gives me great pleasure to testify to you the zeal with which she has pursued it."

"The great value of it is that it gives the children of the county a square deal and enables them to achieve a respectable manhood and womanhood which they would not have if left in their original surroundings which too often are saturated with drunkenness, immorality and poverty, and the work she does is in a manner stemming that stream of degeneracy which had flowed unchecked for more than a hundred years and cost this county large sums of money in criminal prosecutions."

"Whatever your individual opinions may be, this work is exhibited to your consideration."

"Criminology and degeneracy are not an asset to any county; this work must go on from year to year to accomplish results, not only for future years but for the present time; results cannot all be accomplished in one or two or three years."

"Ulster county is not alone in this work. Twenty counties have taken it up and some of those counties provide two agents. The allowance for salary of the agent in Ulster county is the lowest of all the twenty counties."

"The work naturally divides itself into two classes: field work and office work. In the office we have the records of three hundred children which are being continually consulted by custodial officials and are subject to regular inspection by officials from Albany. These records are most valuable. It is evidently an impossibility for the agent to attend to field work and office work at the same time, and therefore we ask for an appropriation to pay for the stenographer who attends to the office work, because this expenditure has been a great burden."

"At times our treasury has been completely empty, but we have struggled on, and the results show that we have not worked in vain."

Square Deal. With Comparisons.

"We encounter more or less trouble in getting private subscriptions; some years we get more money and some years less, and our object in coming here is to ask you to put this office on a self-supporting basis, so that whether I am here or not, the work can be continued without financial embarrassment."

"We don't see why the work of the county should stop when it reaches our door. You provide each year for a large amount of highway work all through this county and it is very necessary that it should be carried on because people travel over those highways, but we are providing an unseen highway along which little children may grope their way from the darkness of surroundings and circumstances over which they have had no control to the light of honest, decent living and ability to earn a living which you and I enjoy. We want to give these children a square deal."

"Before closing, I wish to state also that I have been requested to say a word on behalf of your county alma house. It is a good institution—one of the best in the state, and no county has a better superintendent, but the universal criticism is that it is utterly deficient in hospital accommodations. The sick are crowded into quarters of the well, and I ask you whether you cannot put the institution in a position where it will be free from all criticism, by providing it with proper hospital accommodations."

What Other Officials Get.

Chairman Hartshorn asked Admiral Higginson what sum would be required.

Admiral Higginson replied that the stenographer had been receiving $7 a week, which was hardly a living wage, and he would ask for $9 a week because she was fully worth it and that was less than other stenographers of county officials were receiving.

Other officials, he found, were allowed their telephones at the expense of the county, and he thought it no more than right that such an allowance should be made in this case.

The board then adjourned until next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

You would not get much pleasure out of a piano that could only be played when the loud pedal was down; and there would be no satisfaction in playing it with the soft pedal nailed down all the time, either. In the same way there is not much pleasure owning a "talking-machine" with a fixed volume of tone. Tone control is just as necessary to enjoyment as tone-quality.

T. B. HOSPITAL'S WORK DURING YEAR

Superintendent Gates Tells of Useful Service for Sufferers—Laboratory, Nurse and Treatment Combine to Give Most Effective Protection to Public.

Sixty-two patients were cared for at the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital during the year ending September 30th last, that being the largest number treated there since the hospital was established in August, 1909, according to the annual report of Dr. A. C. Gates, superintendent, submitted on behalf of the board of managers to the board of supervisors at its session Tuesday evening. Of that number, 45 were admitted after September 30th, 1915.

Results of Treatment.

The majority of the cases admitted were advanced cases, but three patients were discharged in a much improved condition. The male patient so discharged has been working for the past seven months and a later report warrants the superintendent, in classing this as an "arrested case" which promises to improve, though working, owing to the benefit of instruction as to care and the rest and treatment, while in the hospital. Of the two female patients discharged as improved, sufficient time has not elapsed to allow the superintendent to judge as to the permanence of the improvement, although the condition of both patients is very favorable at this time.

Patients Who Died.

As to the twenty deaths occurring during the year, six patients were under 30 years of age; 5 between 30 and 40 years; 4 between 40 and 50 years; 3 between 50 and 60 years; 2 over 60 years.

Of the six patients under 30 years of age who died during the past year, the average time of hospital care was 35 days, the shortest time being one day and the longest time being seventy days. Of these six patients three were married, one of the two husbands left a wife and the other a wife and two children. In the third case the wife left a husband and two children.

Patients Who Left.

Of the twenty patients who left the hospital of their own accord, twelve showed an improved condition and eight were unimproved.

Visiting Nurse.

The report states:

"The Local Committee on the Prevention and Cure of Tuberculosis is heartily co-operating with the hospital management by providing for the maintenance of a visiting nurse. This work is proving of great value in:

"1st: The locating of tuberculosis patients.

"2nd: In the reporting of such cases to the proper health authorities.

"3rd: In the advising and often securing the consent of patients to enter the hospital.

"4th: In the instructing of patients unable or unwilling to enter the hospital as to the proper methods of living to prevent the infection of other members of the family.

Value of the Visiting Nurse.

"When formerly the only knowledge of the existence of tuberculosis was the filing of death certificates, we now have a definite record of at least quite a proportion of living cases in our county. Aside from hospital care the visiting nurse is without doubt one of the most valuable agencies in tuberculosis work today.

How the Laboratory is Valuable.

"The Ulster County Laboratory is proving a valuable factor in the work of our institution, as besides the routine sputum examination, we have had the valued assistance of Dr. Sanderson in arriving at a definite diagnosis in several obscure conditions.

How Public Money May be Saved.

"No repairs or improvements of buildings or equipment, excepting emergency work, has been done this year. Roofs of cottages and main buildings must be painted owing to leaky conditions. Our sewage system has been enlarged by the addition of another cesspool, making three cesspools with 100 feet of drain ditch, one cesspool acting as a sedimentation basin and the whole system has been cleaned. The work has been done without additional cost beyond the usual salary of the orderlies.

"The scaling of the 'finishing' or 'skin' coat of the side walls and ceiling of the halls and reception room made necessary the resurfacing of these rooms and the mason work has been done in a very satisfactory manner, but the work is yet to be painted. The expense of this work is assured by the local committee.

Forethought Shows Results.

"The garden which is in the care of the men patients has furnished a large proportion of our supply of fresh vegetables. The raspberries which were planted last season gave us a fair yield this year and the planting of grape vines, currant bushes and strawberries the past spring promises to give us a supply of these fruits in the near future.

"The grounds are fairly well covered with grass, the result of the plowing and the seeding two years ago.

"The fruit trees, apple, pear, plum and cherry which were donated two years ago are, with few exceptions, showing a healthy growth and will soon be of bearing size, some trees yielding a small quantity of fruit this season.

Thoughtfulness for the Sick.

"Through the interest of several young ladies of the city, a fund was raised for the purchase of a Victrola for the hospital. While at first it was planned to purchase a simple, inexpensive instrument, the ready response of our people netted a sum quite in excess of $100, which sum made possible the purchase of a standard model instrument of records, etc. Many of our music lovers, friends of the hospital, have added to our collection of records and today this instrument occupies a prominent place in the entertainment of our people."

Statistics.

The report shows that the hospital gave a total of 7,130 days' treatment, at a cost of $8,826.32, or a cost per day of $1.25.

There were 17 patients in the hospital on October 1, 1915; 45 were admitted during the year, a total of 62. During the year three were discharged as improved—one male and two females; twelve left of their own accord, as improved—nine males and three females; eight left of their own accord as unimproved—seven males and one female; a total of twenty-three; twenty died, of whom sixteen were males and four females, and the number in the hospital on September 30 last was nineteen, of whom twelve were males and seven females.

These patients were distributed as follows:

Hospital's Immediate Needs.

The report continues:

"Recommendations: Buildings: Our buildings are much in need of exterior painting as has before been noted, and it is absolutely necessary that all roofs be given a coat of paint at this time in order to protect our buildings as well as the patients, this especially applying to the cottages. The cost of this probably will not exceed $40 or $50.

"Owing to our hospital beds being limited to ten patients, we frequently find our cottage equipment very inconvenient, and wholly unsuited for seriously ill patients.

"While the detached pavilion unit system is largely adopted in tuberculosis hospital care, each unit is constructed with a central building, often two stories high, containing a general reading or lounging room, bath and toilet equipment and heating plant. It is suggested that our four cottages for men patients be made a part of a pavilion unit constructed along the lines above described, this plan making possible the addition of more sleeping quarters as our needs demand.

"From the beginning of our hospital work to the present time, our institution has had no room provided for a physician's office or treatment room. It being necessary for the attending physician to go from room to room or from cottage to cottage carrying with him the needed instruments, etc., which he himself must provide as the hospital has no equipment of his character. The office proper situated in the main building is now used as a drug room and repository for all books and case records. This room should be wholly reserved for public use when the business of the hospital may be properly attended to and be entirely aside from the medical and surgical work of the institution. As it is frequently necessary that our patients have special treatment we should be provided with a room supplied with wash basin and hot and cold water and a suitable desk for books and case records, a drug cabinet, examining table and instruments for physical examination as well as a simple outfit for treatment of diseases of the eye, ear, nose and throat. Our patients are entitled to this and our attending physicians, who volunteer their services, should not be required to do their work under such conditions.

"In providing for this office and equipment, and the same applies to the cottage improvement, no great sum of money need be expended at any one time, when once a definite plan of enlargement and improvement is arranged, the problems may be taken up separately. This is illustrated in our kitchen and dining room enlargement done by the local committee about two years ago. Our demands at that time necessitated re-arranging and enlarging of this room and this was done so as to care for nearly double our needs at that time and our work since that time has amply justified this plan.

Water, Water Everywhere, Except.

"Water supply: The small pipe line from Clifton avenue to the main building gives little and at times no protection for fire purposes. The roadway leading to the hospital, owing to the loose, sandy soil would admit of the use of nothing but the lightest fire apparatus and if occasion demanded, our fire department would be compelled to lay hose from Clifton avenue or Mead street or depend upon portable chemical apparatus. The inadequate water supply and the lack of suitable roads has been mentioned in our reports for the past three years."

WARM SLIPPERS A COMFORT TO SICK

Last June's Labors of Kingston Women Bear Fruit for Militia Hospitals on Mexican Border—Red Cross Chapter Pays the Freight.

Last June a number of Kingston women interested themselves in the making of some 150 pairs of bed slippers for soldiers. These slippers were intended primarily to keep warm 150 pairs of Ulster county feet which at that time expected to feel the chill of the Texas night in November. The slippers were made for the boys of Company M. When orders came for the Tenth Regiment to return home, the ladies who had given the material and those who had cut out and stitched up the slippers, decided to hold them until such time as they would be needed on the border.

Major Chandler has now written that these warm, comfortable articles can be used most conveniently in the field hospitals among the troops of our own state. The nights are very cold there and the patients are eager for hot water bottles or which there are not many.

The big packing case full of slippers was therefore shipped this week, addressed to Captain W. J. Cranston, M. C., the Kingston physician who is in charge of field hospital No. 4, and who will attend personally to the proper distribution of this gift. The Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross paid the express charges on the box.

It is gratifying to know that the slippers made by Kingston women will be of use and comfort to men from our own state who are serving their country and enduring the hardships of camp life on the border.

OUR OLD PRIVATE COINAGE.

Territorial Gold Pieces Minted by Private Assayers.

The old territorial gold pieces, while they never had the sanction of the United States government, passed at different periods as legal tender in that they were accepted as a medium of exchange between buyer and seller.

Territorial gold pieces were struck by private assayers in Georgia in 1830, in North Carolina from 1831 to 1850, in California from 1849 to 1855, in Utah in 1849, 1850 and 1899, in Oregon in 1849 and in Colorado in 1860 and 1861.

There was nothing illegal in their issue and the procedure was considered in no sense as counterfeiting. In fact, it was not until 1864 that a federal statute was passed forbidding a continuation of the practice.

E. H. Adams of New York told an interesting story about how this statute came about.

"A man named Gruber," he said, "senior of the firm of Clark, Gruber & Co. of Denver, had a large private mint, and one day he showed Salmon P. Chase, who was secretary of the treasury from 1861 to 1864, a fine twenty dollar gold piece of his own coining.

"Mr. Chase told him that it was a counterfeit, whereupon Mr. Gruber remarked that it was no such thing; that there was no law preventing the issue of such coins.

"Then I shall see that there is one," Mr. Chase replied, and he made good his prediction. That conversation took place in 1861, and in 1864 the law was passed.

Mr. Adams explained why these coins had been privately struck. He said that in those days gold, in the shape of dust or nuggets, was used for money in the states where it was mined. This necessitated a great deal of trouble. Scales had to be used whenever a purchase was made, and then there was always the question of how it could best be carried.

So to expedite matters the assayers adopted the custom of taking the gold and making it up into their own coins. That certain of these were full value, Mr. Adams added, was shown by the fact that on several occasions when they were redeemed for official money the gold in them was found to exceed the face value—W. W. B. in Baltimore News.

MOSELEY OF YALE MOSELEY MAY BE NEXT YALE CAPTAIN.

While Captain Black of the Eli squad acquitted himself with a full share of honor throughout the season and in the Yale-Harvard game, it is improbable that he will again hold that position of command, should he return to Yale next year. It is against Yale precedent for a winning captain to accept re-election. In the event Black is not re-elected, George Moseley, the left-end, is considered a likely candidate for the post, Gates and Baldrige, the two tackles, are also considered possibilities.

Aurora Borealis.

Manifestations of aurora borealis are commonly visible in America as far south as 40 degrees—which would include New York. At 40 degrees latitude about ten auroras are visible in a year; at 42 degrees about twenty, and 44 about forty, while between the latitudes of 50 and 60 degrees, the zone of the greatest frequency, they may be seen almost any clear night. South of 40 degrees they are rare.

Vision and Headache.
A recent study of this subject has brought out evidence that people of one-eyed, monocular vision are not troubled with eye headache. Whether one eye is disabled or whether its use has simply been abandoned, either constantly or alternately, the fact that seeing is done wholly by one eye eliminates the struggle to make two unequal eyes work in perfect unison. Freed from the strain of that struggle, the subject finds that the reflex influence upon the cranial nerves is no longer a matter of pain.

ELLENVILLE.
Ellenville, Nov. 29.—The organized class known as the "Jennie Wrens," of the M. E. Sunday school, gave a leap year party Saturday evening in the church parlors and had as their guests the members of the organized class known as the "Eagles." The Wrens have a class membership of sixteen, while the Eagles number a few less but were reinforced by a brother or two or a friend of the Wren sisters. It proved to be a very delightful affair. The young people were chaperoned by Mrs. Taylor, teacher of the class of Eagles, while the Wrens were under the charge of Miss Eddy, one of Ellenville's popular school teachers. Following an hour or more with games and music, very delicious refreshments were served by the Wren sisters and were much enjoyed by the Eagles, who a year ago dispensed hospitality to the Wren sisters.
Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Brown are spending the Thanksgiving holidays with their daughter, Mrs. E. D. Montrose, at Briggs Street.
The Misses Mildred Carman and Bernice Gaskell are home for the Thanksgiving holidays.
Joseph Hume has returned from a month's visit with relatives at Walden and in New York.
H. W. Coons is having the double house known as the Losce residence on Main street, repainted, which adds to the village improvement.
Miss Cornelia Budd of Woodbourne is spending some days with Ellenville friends.
George Legg, who has run the bakery wagon for Martin Deschler the past twenty years, it is understood will run the business now for himself.
All the stores are now taking on the holiday dress. The windows of the store of Fred Groo are much admired, while inside the store it is a bower of beauty in its holiday dress. The large display of cut glass, china and all articles in brass, are very tempting to all admirers of the beautiful.
One of Ellenville's industries, the overall factory of Moore & Hoar, it is understood, for want of material, has been obliged to close down for a time at least, much to the regret of many who have had employment.
Mrs. R. D. Cookingham is spending the week in town stopping with her cousin, Mrs. L. A. Hoornbeek. Mrs. Cookingham is to close out the business of her father, the late C. J. Burhans, who kept the repair shop on Main street.

Paintings Exhibited in New York.
Kingstonians who enjoy visiting the art exhibits when in New York will be pleased to learn that there are now on exhibit at The Waldorf, the Plaza, and Ehrlich's and Powell's galleries, a number of the large and most famous canvases, painted by Dewing Woodward, who made so many friends in this city at the time that she and Miss Johnson held the exhibit of paintings from the Blue Home Colony at Wiltwyck inn. A number of the portrait color drawings and water color sketches, as being something both new in the art world, and very beautiful, are now at the gallery of Mrs. Lucy Fletcher Brown, No. 123 East 57th street, New York city.

"Thro the Park."
"Thro the Park," with the Wylie Camping Company, is the subject of an interestingly illustrated lecture describing the Yellowstone Park, which will be given on both Monday and Tuesday evenings, by Miss Hewitt, who visited the park last summer, at the Elmendorf Street Presbyterian Church. Only a nominal admission will be charged, and following the lecture ice cream will be for sale, all for the benefit of the Adriel Bible Class of the church.

At Holy Cross Church.
The Rev. Father Peter Lange of New York has been secured to minister to the needs of members of Holy Cross parish who have been without a resident priest since the resignation of the Rev. Father James Coerr last spring. Father Lange preached his first sermon in Kingston on Sunday and will officiate at the Thanksgiving Day service.

Cementon Contract Completed.
Messrs. Rice and Leone of the Catskill Construction Company, having completed their contract at Cementon, are busy moving the machinery to East Windham, Greene county, where it will be used by the firm in constructing the East Windham-Windham state road.

Etching on Steel.
In the process of etching one's name on steel nitric acid is used diluted with four to six parts of water, according to depth of etching desired. First cover the steel to be etched with a ground wax composed of equal parts asphaltum, burgundy pitch and beeswax melted together and thoroughly incorporated; warm steel and apply mixture evenly. When cold, scratch desired name or design through the coating on the surface and touch with a camel's hair brush dipped in the diluted acid. In a few minutes dip in hot water to wash off the acid, and clean off the wax mixture with benzine.

Net Her Fault.
The express was approaching a railway bridge that spanned a deep river, and a stout old lady in one of the compartments showed signs of nervousness. As the train went roaring across the structure she did not speak a word, but seemed to be holding her breath.
"There," said a gentleman in a neighboring seat, "we are over it safely." The old lady heaved an explosive sigh.
"Well," she said, "if we had gone to the bottom I should have died with a clear conscience, for it wouldn't have been my weight that did it. I bore up so that I really made the train lighter than it would have been without me."—London Mail.

THE POULTRY YARD.
There need never be any waste from the table where poultry is kept.
A good way to supply mineral matter for fowls is in the form of wheat bran. This is easily digested and quickly turned into eggs.
Start into winter with prime birds only. There is no room to spare for worthless fowls.
To insure against accident it is well to keep an extra cockerel for breeding purposes.
Winter eggs come to those who plan and work to make the hens comfortable.
Hens cannot go their best unless they have a liberal supply of meat in their ration. Not less than 5 per cent should ever be used. Ten per cent is better.

INDIAN RUNNER DUCK A GOOD FARM FOWL

In order to be successful with ducks, farmers should start with pure bred fowls of good meat conformation or else of a superior egg producing capacity that rivals hens, writes a correspondent of the American Agriculturist. If market ducks are chosen an improved strain of Pekin or Aylesbury may well be raised, preferably the former. Ordinary ducks under average farm methods are kept at a loss.
As an egg producer the Indian Runner is a veritable egg factory. It equals or even exceeds a hen in the number of eggs laid and could be as generally kept on farms as a hen. Some farms have natural advantages for ducks—low, wet waste land or running streams. They may therefore be made a specialty, even to the extent of displacing the hens when both cannot be kept conveniently.
The Indian Runner is a great forager and a home lover. It roams the fields and brooks all day, but at night will return to the home of its own will. While it may be successfully kept in a yard if given plenty of drinking water, it is at its best on unlimited range, where it can be more cheaply kept than a hen. It is strictly a nonstopper.

The Indian Runner duck is a healthy fowl and is free from many of the diseases that afflict chickens. It is also a prolific layer of eggs. There are three varieties of the Indian Runner—the white, the white and fawn and the penciled. The white are preferred for show purposes. The duck pictured is a White Indian Runner.

The young are easily raised and often begin laying at five months. They are much more tractable than chickens, so the work of caring for them is pleasurable instead of drudgery.
My ducks lay well till September and do not cease entirely during the molt. They make a quick molt, resume laying and keep it up all the fall. For weeks at a time in the spring they lay almost as many eggs as there are ducks, sometimes fully as many. They give better averages for the summer months than hens. They are at their best for breeding and laying purposes in the second year, and two-year-old ducks as well as older ones lay better in the fall of the second than in the fall of the first year.
Indian Runner ducks are too valuable as egg producers to be sold at ordinary market prices, but the surplus drakes are easily disposed of at good prices, for their flesh is of superior quality. It has a distinct gamy flavor. The feathers are valuable for pillows and ready sell at 40 cents a pound. Each drake will yield about a quarter pound of dry down feathers. The breed is so hardy that it stands intense cold if given dry roosting quarters.

Fumigating the Manhouse.
Fumigating the houses with burning sulphur is one of the ways for ridding the premises of the germs of disease, as well as of lice and mites. Great care must be taken in the preliminaries when one wishes to fumigate the premises with burning sulphur. Sulphur or sulphur candles, placed in metal pans, are principally and successfully used for fumigating. After lighting the sulphur close up the house tightly and leave same closed for a day or so. The windows and doors should then be opened and the house aired for several days before allowing the fowls to enter.

Keep Hens Busy.
Lack of exercise is a frequent cause of sickness. Idle fowls are not well ones, for the healthy hen is at all times busy during the daytime. She is an early riser, and she goes early to bed. The fowl compelled to scratch among litter for its grain is never cold during winter, and it prevents sluggishness in summer.

Would Be a Help.

"It would be like if they also had arsenic deposits," said the farmer.
"Then the rain would spray our crops as well as moisten them."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

BRITISH IN THE BALKANS. (INTL. FILM SERVICE)

TRANSPORTING BRITISH TROOPS IN BALKANS.
These British soldiers in the Balkans were photographed while being transported from one of the rest camps to the front. Owing to the meagre railway facilities the small goliaths are crowded to such an extent that some of the soldiers are forced to ride on the bumpers.

Two Great Painters.
When in Haarlem Van Dyck called upon Frans Hals and, without making himself known, said that he was anxious to have his portrait painted, but as he was in a great hurry he could spare but two hours, at the end of which the portrait must be done. Hals went to work and finished it, and Van Dyck was much pleased.
But portrait painting seemed a very little thing to Van Dyck, and he asked Hals to change places with him. Hals did so, and as Van Dyck finished his work Hals hugged him enthusiastically, saying, "You are Van Dyck. No one but he can do what you have done." And so the two great masters became acquainted. — London Telegraph.

Presidential Nominations.
The statement is often made that no man ever declined a nomination for president. A convention of the Abolitionist party was held in New York city in November, 1847, and nominated John P. Hale of New Hampshire for president and Leicester King of Ohio for vice president. Mr. Hale declined the nomination, and the ticket was abandoned.
In 1852 the Free Soil Democratic party held a national convention in Pittsburgh and nominated Hale for president. He accepted and at the election received 156,148 votes in twenty states.
Party nominations for vice president have been declined a number of times. — Exchange.

Nicknames For Police.
It would be interesting to have a list of the names by which the police are known. "Copper" and "bobby" are probably the most prevalent, and they carry their derivations with them—an officer who "cops" people is a copper, and the name of the founder of the force, Sir Robert Peel, explains the other two styles. In many parts a policeman is called a sloop—a corruption of "sloop" (police) spelled backward. In Dundee a policeman is a scout, the name having originally been got from the fact that he wears a helmet with a bold peak fore and aft. — London Standard.

Cause of the Row.
"What's all this fuss about?" asked the policeman, stepping between the two young men.
The one that had got the worst of it and was wiping the blood from his nose pointed to the other fellow. "He can tell you her name if he wants to," he said. "I won't." — Exchange.

Meteoric Matter.
In the early days of its history the earth is believed to have grown rapidly by the addition of meteoric matter. It is still growing in the same manner, though scarcely to an appreciable extent, for the mass of meteoric matter added yearly is reckoned to be only 20,000 tons.

Miss Gertrude Nelligan, one of the squad, has gained two pounds in weight since she started to undergo the experiment. Mrs. Nelligan also received two proposals of marriage, but she rejected the suitors.

It was the first anniversary of the Pnoodies' wedding day, and the good wife had prepared a special dinner in honor of the occasion.
"Friedella," said Pnoodies after the feasting was over, "that was the best meal I ever ate. You are worth your weight in gold."
"A year ago today, Claude, Mrs. Pnoodies answered, "you told me I was worth my weight in diamonds."
"Did I? Well, dear, this is your first annual—er—revelation." — Chicago Tribune.

Lawyer For Defendant.—Now, sir, you say that my client disappeared in the darkness after knocking you down. What time of night was this? Complainant—I can't say exactly. Your client had my watch.

What He Advised.
A young man unhappily married and practically penniless took his tale of woe to a prominent divorce attorney in Chicago and concluded with this: "I'm too poor to pay much for a divorce, but my wife makes my life miserable. After I get home at 6 o'clock in the evening I get no peace until I go to sleep. What would you advise?"
"After considering all the facts in your case," said the lawyer, "I would suggest that you get a job which requires you to work all night." — Exchange.

A Homemade Thanksgiving Dinner

By ELEANOR MARSH

Roger Chamberlin lived at home with his mother and an older sister. The Chamberlins were well to do and kept two servants. Until recent years a cook and chambermaid were considered essential in every well regulated family. Half a century ago excellent servants were to be had at reasonable wages and were a great relief and comfort, but nowadays, when women work in factories, servants are scarce, independent and not of the former grade. If the Chamberlin family kept a servant six months they thought they were doing well. Even then many of the choice bits brought to the table were spoiled in the cooking. Take it all together, the servant question was with them what it is with most families, a destroyer of domestic comfort.

A few days before Thanksgiving Mrs. Chamberlin's cook left her. The family were invited to dine with a relative, Mrs. Chamberlin and her daughter accepted, but Roger preferred his own, there was a girl, Alice Woodruff, who had been for some time trying to land Mr. Chamberlin, but he had stood off, and she had been unable to get a clutch on him. She heard that he was intending to dine on Thanksgiving at his club and conceived the idea of putting a bait before his eyes with a look in the shape of a Thanksgiving dinner cooked by herself, for she was a natural born cook.

Miss Woodruff wrote Mr. Chamberlin inviting him to dinner on Thanksgiving, stating at the same time that there would be no turkey, no cranberry sauce, no boiled onions, no pumpkin pie. What would be on the table would be cooked by herself. They would dine alone, her mother, who was not well, dining in her room.

A hundred dollar bill dangling over Mr. Chamberlin's head could not have pleased him so much as this invitation. It was not only getting rid of the turkey and other Thanksgiving appointments, but he spent the interval before the dinner conjuring up delectable dishes that would be on the table. He accepted at once.

Now, Miss Woodruff's plan was either a stroke of genius or doomed to a dreadful failure. Not one woman in a hundred is fitted to carry out such a plan. A cook, like a poet, is born, not made. Many ladies have never studied cookery, many have studied and not learned it, and many who can prepare a good dinner must come to the dining room with a flaming face and apparel covered with grease spots, to say nothing of a coiffure awry—a repelling sight to a lover.

Now, listen to what Alice Woodruff did. She cooked that dinner in snow white apparel, her best dinner costume. When Mr. Chamberlin was announced she kept her waiting but a few minutes, when she went directly from the kitchen to the drawing room. Then she excused herself for a few minutes to put a few finishing touches on to the viands and returned to her guest, while her maid put the dinner on the table.

"I thought," said Mr. Chamberlin, "that you were to cook the dinner yourself."

"I have cooked it myself and with no one's assistance."

"But the maid?"

"She simply serves it and acts as waitress."

"You don't mean to say that you cooked a dinner in that costume?"

"I do."

"But you look as if you had just come out of a handkerchief."

"I have just come out of the kitchen."

The first course was a soup, the like of which Mr. Chamberlin had never tasted before. Then there was a soup of the fish course, and a spread eagle chicken was produced. There were cream potatoes with it, but the name does not describe the dish. Those cream potatoes are a luxury in themselves. They were fine chopped, and one eating them could scarcely tell the cream from the potato, while the parsley gave the whole a delicious flavor. With this course was a dish of spaghetti cooked with tomatoes—marvelously tasty.

"This is not a course dinner," said the hostess when these viands were finished. "There are many kinds of dinners, but a dinner to be cooked at home by a member of the family should consist of few dishes."

"And every one delicious, as in this case."

When Mr. Chamberlin saw the dessert come on he looked disappointed. It was ice cream, and men don't usually care for ice cream. But when he put this ice cream into his mouth he cast up his eyes, and a pleasant smile passed over the lips that had just closed upon it.

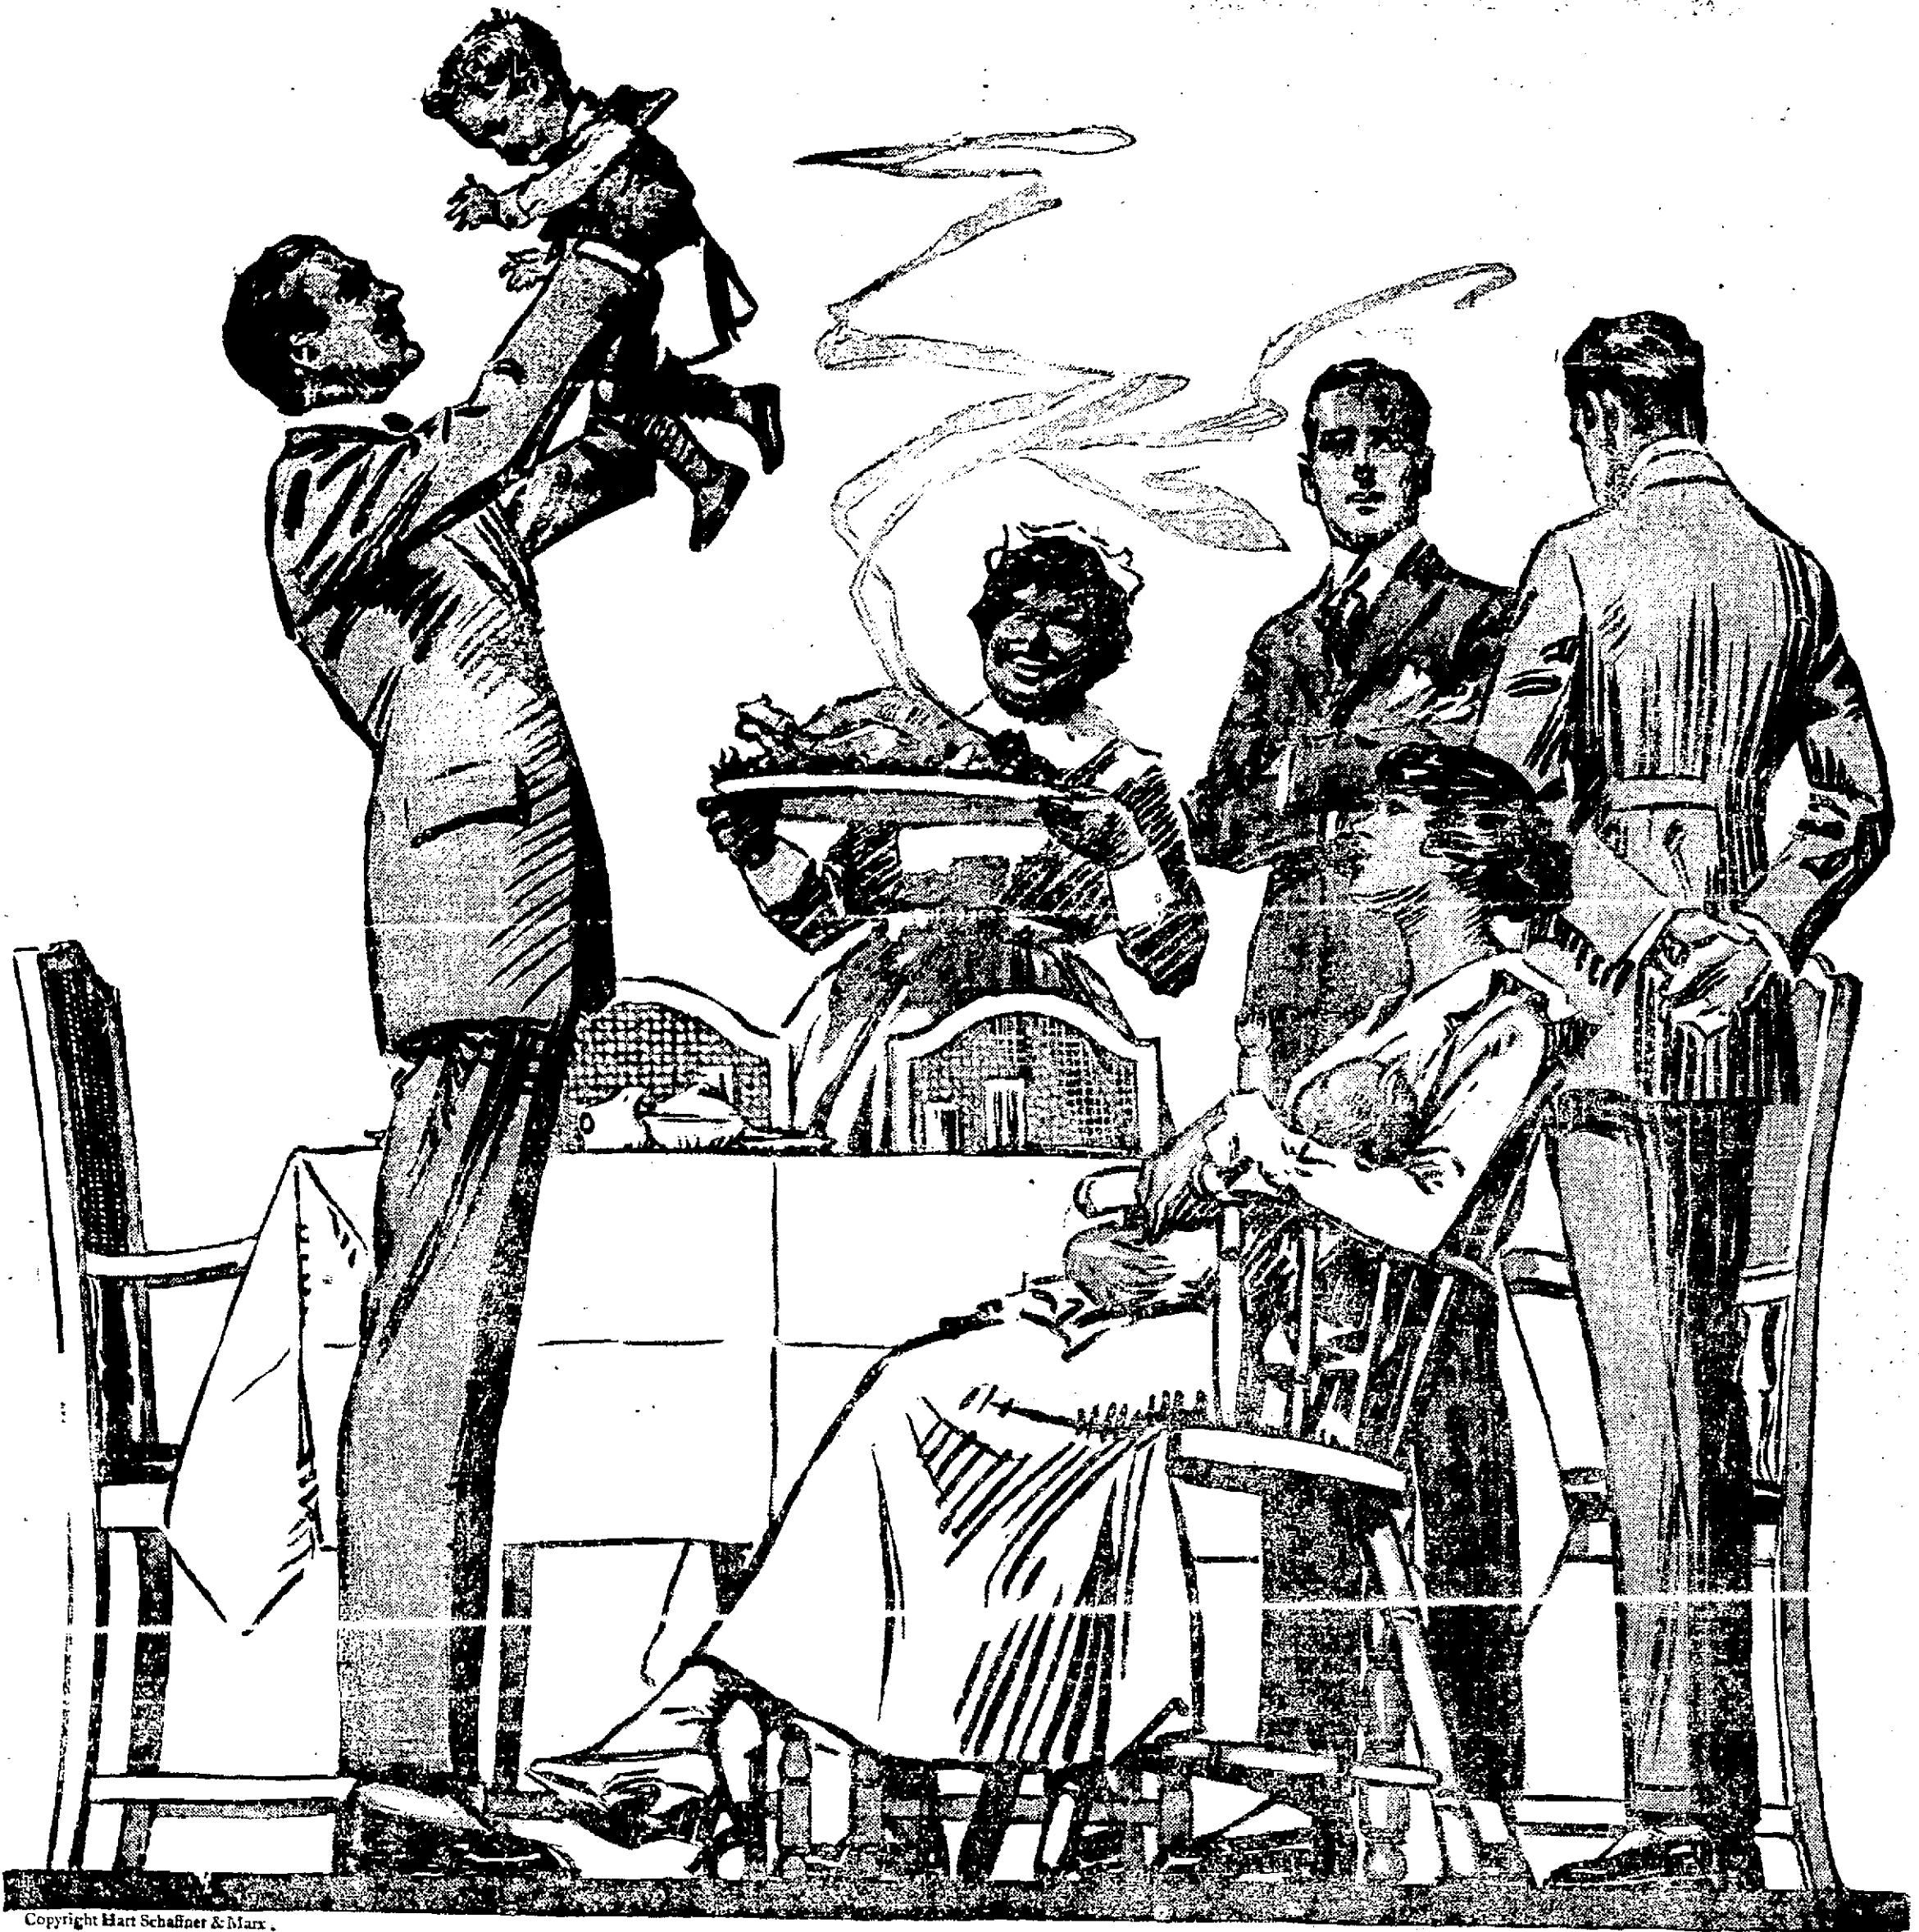

"Why, it's made of cream," he said. "Certainly; no cornstarch in it."

"You made it yourself?"

"Certainly; except that the maid turned the freezer."

After Mr. Chamberlin had been helped three times to the ice cream and the cake that melted in his mouth the dinner was finished. The rest of the work fell upon the maid, while hostess and guest retired to a sofa before a bright fire. What occurred there is a matter between themselves, but the next Thanksgiving the two dined together as man and wife.

Getting Around It.
"What would happen if an irresistible force should meet an immovable body?"
"It is not necessary for anything to happen. I maintain that arbitration is always feasible."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

YACHTING BOOMING IN CUBA

Amateurs Have Outgrown Smaller Craft and Place Orders for Several Larger Yachts.

With the growing prosperity of Cuba, yachting has developed into one of the leading sports of wealthy Cubans, and the Havana Yacht club races are now a feature of the season. Many of the amateur yachtsmen feel that they have outgrown the smaller type of racing craft, and orders have been placed in this country for several of the larger racing yachts. When these are launched it is hoped that some of the American yacht owners may be induced to visit Cuba and participate in a series of international races. If the outcome of these races warrants, several of the wealthy Cuban enthusiasts may combine and challenge for the America's cup within the next few years.

DEPENDS ON "PULLED DRIVE"

Success of Ichiya Kumagee, Japanese Tennis Champion, Uses One of Rarest Strokes.

Tennis experts who have been studying the style of Ichiya Kumagee since the recent victories of the Japanese champion showed him to be a formidable contender for the national title, say that Kumagee's success is due largely to his use of the "pulled drive," one of the rarest strokes in the game. The stroke, they say, corresponds to the pull in golf. Its effect is to make the ball spin upon an axis tilted away from the player at an angle

HIGH COST OF FOOD PROTEST SWEEPS COUNTRY.

With several congressmen and senators enlisted in the fight to procure a food embargo, and the Housewives' League advocating a boycott on eggs the fight to bring about an inquiry or steps to reduce the high price of foodstuffs is sweeping the country today.

Representative John J. Fitzgerald, of New York, is leading the movement in the house for an embargo on food. It is his contention that Americans should be fed first and that if there is anything left over it may then be shipped to the warring nations. In this he is now supported by Representative Frank Buchanan, of Illinois, and Senator Maritime, of New Jersey.

The American Federation of Labor, of which Samuel Gompers is president, has just gone on record as favoring a food embargo to cut prices. This action of the labor federation was taken by unanimous vote, with the suggestion that the embargo remain in effect until "prices are restored to normal."

George W. Perkins is chairman of the New York City Food Commission, and has just assured Mayor Mitchell, of New York, that he can count upon the necessary financial support to set the City of New York up in the coal business, a step the mayor threatened to take unless the price of coal is reduced. It is planned to have the wagons and trucks of the Street Cleaning Department deliver the coal.

Mrs. Julian Heath is president of the Housewives' League.

Pinto's Scheme.
It was Mr. Streeter, a London jeweler, who was instrumental in exposing the notorious old time swindler, Pinto, who claimed to have discovered the philosopher's stone. His method consisted in having a bag of gold dust concealed up his sleeve, from which, by an ingenious contrivance, he was able to squeeze the powdered metal unnoticed into the crucible. By this means he was able to melt a sovereign and produce three or four times its weight in metal.—London Mail.

Peat is a vegetable formation, sometimes of a spongy character (when recent) and again of a kind anhydrous, being in composition to wood, while in some instances, at the bottom of bogs, it approaches lignite and even coal.

POSTS ARRANGED FOR COURT

Desirable to Have Them Removed When Lawn is Being Cut or in Winter—Good Plan Shown.

It is sometimes desirable to have tennis-court posts arranged to be easily removed from the lawn or the court when the grass is being mowed, or during the winter. The method of fixing the posts in the ground, as shown in the sketch, makes it convenient to remove the posts and still gives the necessary stability, writes Edward R. Smith of Walla Walla, Wash., in Popular Mechanics Magazine. A square wooden box, tarred to resist moisture, is placed in the ground, and the post is fitted into it. The upper end of the box is level with the surface, and when the post is removed a wooden block is fitted into the opening. Removal of the posts permits the mowing of the grass close to them and leaves the place free from obstructions when the court is not in use.

KINGSTON'S NEEDS AS SEEN BY MAYOR

We Have the Men and the Material
Advantages But Closer Co-operation as Proposed by Chamber of Commerce Expansion is Vital Essential He Declares.

"The business-like plan upon which the Chamber of Commerce is to be broadened in scope and made more efficient convinces me that the present expansion movement is going to result in a revitalized organization, and one that will accomplish much for Kingston."

This was the statement made this morning by Mayor Palmer Canfield, Jr., after he had gone over the plans with those who are in charge.

"I am convinced that a real effective Chamber of Commerce covering our whole city with its membership and influence will be a powerful force in pushing Kingston forward. We do not lack good citizens, nor the advantages essential for a thriving, growing city; we have them, but we do need closer co-operation and the means for focusing the thought and action of all of our citizens on the needs of Kingston whatever they are."

"The Chamber of Commerce offers itself for an expression of community thought, promotion of ideals, and consolidation of civic efforts," said the mayor.

"The organization can only be as strong as its membership. Properly equipped, it should have numerical strength, proper financial support, and the united service of its membership. Business and commercial organizations are necessarily run on the same principles as baseball—teamwork wins."

"The work of the Chamber of Commerce should concern every man who calls Kingston home or who has business or property interests here. The competition between cities is growing keener all the time, and live commercial organizations are the agencies that are being employed both to secure new advantages and civic assets, and to conserve and cultivate those already possessed."

"Even under handicaps the Chamber of Commerce has accomplished much good in the past. Reorganized along accepted lines of business efficiency, it can extend its usefulness to a very great extent for the benefit of Kingston."

"I believe that every man should assume his responsibility as a citizen of the community. He should be willing to make some sacrifice for his city. With the men of Kingston unitedly back of the Chamber of Commerce, as I believe they will be, we shall have the fight for a greater Kingston more than half won."

Resolution Adopted by the Directors of the National Uster County Bank of Kingston.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the National Uster County Bank of Kingston, held on the 28th day of November, 1916, the following minute was adopted:

The Directors of the National Uster County Bank desire to place on record their sorrow for the death of their associate, John J. Campbell, Esquire, and to express to his family their deep sympathy in their bereavement. Mr. Campbell was an unusual man, starting in life with few advantages of a material nature, he was able by the possession of the natural endowment of a keen intellect and determined spirit to become a successful man, and to be a leader in all the various interests with which he was identified, whether in church, in social or banking organizations, in other bodies, in his business or as a citizen generally. All these circles will miss his wise counsel and sage advice, but by no means so much by the Directors of this Bank to whom he gave freely of the best that was in him.

Resolved that the foregoing minute be entered in full in the minutes, that it be published in the newspapers and that the board do now adjourn for the purpose of attending the funeral.—Advertisement.

MAKES PUBLIC A BULLETIN FROM HIS EMPLOYERS

Mr. Richard Clinton allows the public to know how his firm does business.

Our representative called upon Mr. Clinton, Kingston manager for S. B. Thing & Co., Inc., in regard to what the future price of shoes may reach. In answering his question Mr. Clinton handed him a bulletin just received from Boston, the headquarters of his firm, and gave us permission to publish it.

BOSTON, NOV. 28, 1916.

NOW LISTEN, MANAGERS:
YOU ARE GOING TO DO THE BIGGEST BUSINESS IN YOUR HISTORY THESE NEXT FEW MONTHS . . .

Thousands of faces that never appeared in Things's Stores are going to come in to see what you have got to offer, because they have always thought that Things's wasn't good enough for them—that they were too common for the nice people.

The high prices which the other stores are going to ask for footwear is going to send a good many around town on a looking-out for something reasonable in price and fair in quality—so you are going to fall the duty of showing and selling them if you look right—if your goods are displayed correctly—if you don't act too cheap or look too small.

If you satisfy them, they are going home and tell what they have seen—where they have bought—and give a whole lot of advice about other people's purchases.

You can't help but make good if you keep your head up, and your eyes open. Remember this—it is as true as gospel.

When a person comes into your store and expresses a mere desire for the return of his money, give it to them as quick as you can make the first offer—if you think better, turn around and sell them. BUT FIRST GIVE THEM THEIR MONEY BACK—

Now, everybody, heads up—keep your store slick and clean—your goods displayed so that they will see what you have. Keep your windows trimmed—your stock well filled—yourself happy! Thank you.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Miss Cora Gilbert entertained a number of friends Tuesday evening at her home on Green street with a variety shower in honor of Miss Ethel Vigners.

Mrs. Hungerford is entertaining at the Eagle Hotel a Thanksgiving party consisting of Mrs. Dinick and Miss Seebor of Riffon, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Wood of Poughkeepsie, Mr. and Mrs. Nat Olds of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hungerford and daughter of New York.

Mrs. J. M. DuBois entertained a number of guests at dinner at her home on Pine street on Tuesday evening, in honor of Mr. DuBois's birthday. The table was handsomely decorated with Killarney roses, and a birthday cake with lighted candles occupied a place of honor at the feast. It was indeed a delightful affair.

Mrs. Jennie Sahler, formerly of this city, now of Caldwell, N. J., who has been a guest at the Stuyvesant for several days, delightfully entertained a party of friends at the Stuyvesant on Tuesday. A most delicious turkey dinner was served, covers being laid for fourteen. Pink roses formed the decorations. Mrs. Sahler will soon leave for New York city, where she will join her sister, Mrs. Monroe, wife of Dr. Monroe, and later they will go to Cuba for the winter.

Monday evening, November 27, a number of relatives and friends most delightfully surprised Mrs. Homer I. Goodsell of 414 Hasbrouck avenue in honor of her birthday. There was dancing, singing, and duets and solos were rendered during the evening. The top liner of the evening's entertainment was a duet by Mr. and Mrs. H. Goodsell, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. James C. Legg. All the latest and most popular music was sung. A buffet lunch was served, including a beautiful birthday cake, baked especially for the occasion. The hostess was the recipient of many handsome and useful presents. Then leaving for home the guests all declared the host and hostess charming entertainers.

Robinson-Howard.
Leo Irvin Robinson of No. 15 Liberty street, and Miss Elizabeth M. Howard of No. 39 Liberty street were united in marriage on Friday, November 24, by the Rev. John H. Bridgely, rector of St. Joseph's Church. The attendants were Solomon J. Wells and Harriet P. Robinson.

Mr's Byrne to Play.
While "Music from New York" always sounds impressive in regard to a dance, the music for the Day Nursery dance this year is of a very special excellence. Miss Byrne herself is coming to lead her orchestra, and those who have heard Miss Byrne's magnetic playing are extraordinarily enthusiastic about her. She puts so much life and energy and rhythm into her dance music, and the fact that she is coming herself should induce everyone to go to the dance to hear her.

Announcements have been received by friends in this city telling of the marriage of Miss Minnie Olive Douglas, daughter of Robert Douglas of Poughkeepsie, to Albert Gary Noyes, son of the late Rev. Dr. and Mrs. S. D. Noyes, on Monday, November 27, at 11 a. m. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Frank B. Seeley, pastor of the Fair Street Reformed Church, at the parsonage of the church. Following a short wedding journey, Mr. and Mrs. Noyes will make their home at No. 12 Wall street, this city.

Lowell Club.
The Lowell Club met with Mrs. Hale at her home on Broadway on Tuesday. Following the roll call of current events, Miss Fuller had the paper for the day on "The James 1424-1857," and an exceedingly comprehensive and able paper it was. Mrs. Fessenden then gave a talk, "The Story of the Lady of the Lake," which was also very interesting, and was followed by a reading from "The Lady of the Lake," given by Mrs. Baragwanath. Next week the club will meet with Mrs. James H. Everett at her home on Maiden Lane.

Twentieth Century Club.
The Twentieth Century Club met at the home of Mrs. Harry Walker on Warren street on Monday. Mrs. Rodie was in charge of the Round Table and opened the discussion with an account of the Lick Observatory. Mrs. Van Tassel followed Mrs. Rodie. The paper for the day was by Mrs. Harrison, who gave an admirable description of Leland Stanford University and its accomplishments. Another excellent paper was on the "Big Trees of California," and was given by Mrs. Roosa. The program closed with a reading from "Sky Pilot," given by Mrs. Fessenden. The next meeting of the club will be on December 11, at the home of Mrs. C. K. Moulton.

Whispell-Roosa.

Pine Hill, Nov. 28.—A quiet, but pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roosa, when their daughter, Miss Ola was united in marriage by the Rev. Mr. Blakeney to Benjamin B. Whispell, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Whispell of Big Indian. The bride was prettily dressed in blue silk and carried bridal roses. Miss Hilda Roosa, a sister of the bride and William Roosa, a brother, attended the couple. After the ceremony, a bountiful dinner was served to a number of guests which was greatly enjoyed after which the bridal party departed amid a shower of rice and good wishes for a short honeymoon trip, and on their return will reside in Pine Hill.

Barnes-Mulvey.

James T. Barnes of Glens Falls, N. Y., and Miss Veronica Marie Mulvey of this city, and a cousin of Mrs. William O'Reilly of Pine Grove avenue, were married on Tuesday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock in St. Mary's Church by the Rev. John J. Hekey, rector of the church. The edifice was brilliantly illuminated and the altar beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums. The best man was Thomas J. Leonard, a cousin of the bride, and the bridesmaid was Miss Margaret Fitzgerald, also a cousin of the bride. The bride looked charming, gowned in a blue traveling suit, trimmed with mink fur and wore a hat to match. She carried a bouquet of bridal roses. Following the ceremony the immediate relatives of the contracting parties were served with an elaborate banquet in the private dining room at the Stuyvesant Hotel. The table decorations were pink and white carnations and ferns. After an extended honeymoon trip to New York city, Mr. and Mrs. Barnes will reside in Glens Falls where the groom holds a responsible position with the International Paper Mills. Both bride and groom have a host of friends who wish them a long and prosperous married life.

Harris-Hart.

Miss Naomi B. Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Hart, of No. 332 Main street, Claremont, New Hampshire, and Herbert Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Harris of this city, were married on Wednesday evening, November 14, at the home of the bride's parents by the Rev. F. M. Swaffield of the Claremont Baptist Church. The bride wore white satin and chiffon, with a long veil draped with lilies of the valley, and her bouquet was of yellow chrysanthemums. Her bridesmaid was Miss Ethel England, who wore a gown of pale blue, messaline. The double ring service was used and the ceremony took place beneath an arch of evergreens. The home of the bride was handsomely decorated in a color scheme of yellow. Miss Evelyn Raymond and Master Tracy Hart acted as flower bearers and strewed chrysanthemums in the path of the bride, who was given in marriage by her father. Ropes of evergreen were held by six young lady friends of the bride and the wedding march was played by Miss Isabelle E. Rice. Following the ceremony refreshments were served. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts, including cut glass, silver, china and linen and a purse of money. About one hundred guests were present, including Mr. and Mrs. William Harris of this city, parents of the groom.

Last Garden Club Meeting.

The last meeting of the Uster Garden Club for this season, was held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Washburn in Saugerties. There was a large attendance, and much interest was shown in the reports by the various committees and the board of gardeners, showing what the club has accomplished during the past year. The president, Mrs. Higginson, presided at the meeting and after the business session the club members were given a rare treat in an address given by the Rev. Thomas Cole, rector of the Episcopal Church, whose subject was "Some Ancient Ferns." In addition to the address itself, which was filled with interesting facts of a geological nature, and much valuable and unusual information, all delightfully presented, Mr. Cole had a rare exhibit of fossils showing the various sorts of ancient ferns, perfectly recorded in the stones. Mr. Cole's collection is both large and rare, and has recently received some fine additions from a collector friend in Chicago, from whom an interesting letter was read. These are specimens taken from Mazon Creek in Illinois, and include some wonderful specimens. Following the highly appreciated talk and a careful inspection of the fossils, under Mr. Cole's supervision, the club enjoyed a delightful social hour, during which delicious refreshments were served. The club will not meet again until February next, but for the coming year which will start then, an even finer program than that of this year has been planned by the Uster Garden Club.

Automobile Collision.

A small Trumbull car owned by Mr. Jones of Newburgh collided with a Buick car owned by Mrs. George Bright of Highland near Marlborough Saturday. F. G. Wood and J. R. Jones both of Newburgh were severely injured and Clarence Smedes of Highland, an occupant of the Buick, sustained a broken rib and bruises. Charles Fowler and two Highland girls comprised the other occupants of the Buick. The Buick was damaged to the extent of $200, while the Trumbull was only fit for the junkman.

Addition to Fabrikoid Works.

The Fabrikoid works of Newburgh are planning a $14,000 addition to their plant there. The company will cover their entire property with this building and are looking for more land to use for storage purposes.

CHEMUNG SUNK AFTER WARNING

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, Nov. 29.—John R. Putnam, the United States consul at Valencia, Spain, has taken affidavits from members of the crew of the American freighter Chemung which was sunk by a submarine of the Central Powers.

Despatches from Valencia today indicated that slight ground existed for complications notwithstanding the fact that the Chemung went down with the stars and stripes flying at her masthead.

The vessel carried war supplies for Italy although no ammunition. The crew was given time to take to the small boats and were towed toward the Spanish coast until a Spanish ship was sighted. Then the seamen were placed upon this neutral vessel.

An attempt by the Germans to haul down the American flag before they sank the Chemung led to a lively incident, Captain John L. Duffy, master of the Chemung, reported. Of the crew, ten were Americans.

MARK TWAIN'S LAST DAYS.

"Sorry, but I Can't Hurry This Dying Business," He Told a Friend.

Mark Twain's last days. It will be remembered, were spent in Bermuda, at the home of Vice Consul Allen, where he had gone following the shock of his daughter Jean's death. The great humorist, suffering from heart attacks which began to recur with increasing frequency, knew that he was a dying man. Yet his whimsical humor never failed him. His biographer, Albert Bigelow Paine, writing in St. Nicholas, recalls how Mr. Clemens at this time referred to the hypodermic injection, which had become necessary to him, as "hypnotic injections."

"As long as I remember anything," writes Mr. Paine in describing the trip from Bermuda, "I shall remember the forty-eight hours of that homeward voyage. He was comfortable at first, and then we ran into the humid, oppressive air of the Gulf stream, and he could not breathe. It seemed to me that the end might come at any moment, and this thought was in his own mind, but he had no dread, and his sense of humor did not fall. Once, when the ship rolled and his hat fell from the book and made the circuit of the cabin floor, he said, 'The ship is passing the hat.'"

"I had been instructed in the use of the hypodermic needle and from time to time gave him the 'hypnotic injection,' as he called it. But it did not afford him entire relief. He could remain in any position but a little while. Yet he never complained and thought only of the trouble he might be making. Once he said:

"I am sorry for you, Paine, but I can't help it—I can't hurry this dying business."

"And a little later:

"Oh, it's such a mystery, and it takes so long!"

EVOLUTION OF A SENATOR.

His Career Briefly Sketched From Baby Holding to Congress.

Prior to election a future United States senator is meek and lowly. He is not averse to holding babies or four axes, as the environment may demand, while campaigning for votes. One may safely slap him on the back without fear of rebuff. Before the last precinct is counted he seems to know his success, dons his black clothes and a fresh collar and begins to practice a dignified stride for future use on Pennsylvania avenue. Babies and jackpots have lost their alluring possibilities; no longer does he tolerate familiarity; he is as patronizing as a rooster who scratches worms for the hens and then eats them before his invited guests arrive.

Seated in a niche of the hall of congress the new senator feels as though he should peer through a microscope to make sure he is there, but confidential letters sent to the editor of the Jumpoff Breeze tell how he is preparing a bill advocating the irrigation of Sagebrush valley; also how he is working to death by other senators asking favors of him. As a school for fiction writers the United States senate has all other correspondence schools lashed to the mast.

Many senators fail to receive just reward at the conclusion of their maiden voyage through the troubled congeries of alon waters probably because the law is so strictly enforced against murder.—Harper's Weekly.

Grand Canyon Rocks.

In the very bottom of the Grand canyon lie the dark, inconspicuous rocks, mostly tough crystalline granite gneiss and schist, the oldest in the canyon and among the oldest in the world. They were in part deposited as sands and muds in a sea, in part accumulated as lava flows and in part intruded beneath the surface as molten rock. All these materials became solidified, and later they were slowly heated and crumpled into mountains, which were in time worn down by rain, rivers and perhaps the waves of the sea to a nearly level land surface. This surface finally sank beneath the sea and became the floor on which fresh sediments began to accumulate. Twice at least was this mighty cycle repeated in the Grand canyon region.

ABOARD THE COUNTESS

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

The other day I saw a notice in a Liverpool paper to the effect that the courts had decided to rehear the case of the brig Countess. To the general reader these lines meant nothing. I do not suppose there are fifty people in all England today who can recall the case of the Countess, although the particulars were published far and wide and finally appeared in book form.

The Countess was a Bristol brig, owned in part and commanded by Captain Thomas, who was not only a thorough seaman, but a man of excellent heart. We were bound out to Georgetown, in British Guiana, with orders to call at Jamaica. This was my third voyage with Captain Thomas, the other two extending only to ports in Spain and return. I was an apprentice, or ship's boy, having nothing to do with the cabin, but living with the crew in the fore-castle and learning to be a sailor.

After we left port and got things shipshape I had opportunity to look over the crew and see what they were made of, and I was not long in making up my mind, boy as I was, that we had shipped a hard lot. There is always a leader in the fore-castle, and in those days it was the best fighter. Seaman-ship and education had to boot to brute strength. It wasn't three days before a big, burly fellow, who went by the name of Bristol Bob, but whose real name was Havens, had established himself as "boss." If he had had the good of the brig in view this would have been for her benefit, but it soon transpired that he had plans of his own.

Before reaching Jamaica the crew had been on the point of mutiny half a dozen times.

One afternoon—it was on the fourth day, I believe—I was aroused from my sleep by a conversation between Bob and a man named Jackson. They knew I was in the bunk, but believed me to be sleeping soundly.

"This is the plan as I have thought it out," Bob was saying. "After we have got the brig we will cruise to the eastward for a spell. The island I am after is not down on the chart. It is northeast of Trinidad and maybe 200 miles away from here."

"Don't Mizner know?" asked the other.

"Never heard of it, but this is his first trip this way."

The men presently went about their business, but I made the pretense of sleeping soundly until called to relieve the other watch. I was all in a tremble over what I had heard and had no idea of what course I should take. While it seemed proper for me to go to the captain or mate with my information, the reader must not overlook the uncertainties in the way. I planned a dozen different ways to reach headquarters, and that I didn't put the captain on his guard was his own fault.

One night during our watch he called to me to bring something from his room. Bob and his friends were forward at the heel of the bowsprit, and as I came out of the cabin the mate was at the water cask. As I reached him I whispered:

"I should very much like to speak to you or the captain, sir."

"If you don't get forward I'll speak to you in a way you'll remember for a year to come!" he growled.

No doubt he imagined I had some complaint to make, but if he had permitted me to speak it might have prevented the tragedy which followed.

A few nights later Bristol Bob called the mate forward, and shortly afterward he came to me and said:

"Boy, run down and tell the captain that the first mate is ill."

I found the captain sound asleep, but as soon as I had told him what I had overheard in the fore-castle and what I suspected had just happened on deck it was wonderful how coolly he took the exciting news. As he reached for his pistols he ordered me to bolt the doors of the companion-way. The men stood at the entrance, and as they caught sight of me they stepped back, supposing the captain was following. I slammed and bolted the swinging doors.

The fellows cursed and yelled, and though we could hear them moving around the decks from that time until daylight, they made no attack. Finally we heard some one working with an ax on the cabin door, and the captain made ready to fire a bullet through it. By some carelessness the weapon was prematurely discharged, and he received the bullet in his throat, dying a few moments later. I was so overcome and frightened now that the captain was gone that I hid in his stateroom, and the mutineers no longer had any one to resist them.

The first thing I knew it was night, and it was so very quiet that I knew there could be no wind outside. I crept out into the cabin, but everything remained as I had left it. For two hours I listened for sounds from the deck, but heard nothing and finally fell asleep. I was aroused by men dropping into the cabin through the skylight. They belonged to the Scotch whaler Bruce, which was lying near by and had had us in view since daylight.

The mutineers had taken the longboat and abandoned the brig, which was driving at her own sweet will. And to this day no one of the men has ever been heard of. No doubt they met with some accident and all perished at sea.

SOCIETY AT ICE-SKATING TEA.

(Irving Gould Brokaw and Mrs. Dillingham.)

New York, Nov. 29.—Ice-skating teas are the latest fad of New York society. More than one hundred persons socially prominent were present at the ice-skating tea given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dillingham, both of whom are expert skaters. All of the guests wore skates and tea was served on the ice. The most expert skater of the afternoon was generally agreed upon as Irving Gould Brokaw, the wealthy amateur ice skater.

MENKE'S DAILY
SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, Nov. 29.—The "hired help" of baseball is all primed for a death struggle with the bosses. Failure of the ruling powers in the major and minor leagues to grant their demands has peeved the players to a point where they are making threats to refuse to report at the training camps next spring.

"Only about ten per cent of the players are under contract at the present time," declared Dave Eitz, president of the Baseball Players' Fraternity. "Of the others, approximately ninety per cent have agreed not to sign new contracts until given sanction by the fraternity."

"We have made certain demands upon the ruling powers of baseball. Each and every one is fair. We ask nothing that is out of line with justice for all concerned. Yet the baseball leaders either have rejected our demands flatly or have ignored them entirely. And such treatment does not appeal to the players."

Among the most important demands are these:

1.—That the club owners shall pay an injured player during the entire period of disability, or release him immediately upon being injured, so the player can begin at once to seek some other job.

2.—That all minor league players be paid traveling expenses to and from the training camps.

1,250 in "Pat."

"The minors have objected strenuously to the latter request," said Eitz. "They claim that the club owners are not in a position to pay such expenses for the players. He may get $100 a month or perhaps $200 a month, should he make good in the minors. He gets nothing if he doesn't. And yet he is called upon to pay out of his own pocket the heavy expenses incident to making trips to training camps, some far remote from his home town."

Eitz said the membership of the fraternity now is beyond 1,250, which statement comes as something of a surprise. It was figured that the total enrollment wouldn't be 500 off that much.

"We have been recruiting very quickly," he said. "About eighty-five per cent of the major league players are in our organization, together with about fifty per cent of the higher class minors."

New Form Contracts.

The new contracts that will be issued to the diamond troickers this year undoubtedly will contain many new clauses inserted by the moguls. The magnates now are deliberating on a number of new rules by which they hope to bind the player with more firmness than ever before.

Some leaders favor a contract to cover the entire year. The present one merely covers the playing season. The reason for the proposed change is to prevent barnstorming—a practice long frowned upon by the club owners.

To Reduce Salaries.

The expiration of many wartime contracts this year means big reductions in 1917 in the major league payrolls. Wholesale cuts will be made in the salaries of the players. Those who got from $4,000 to $8,000 as the result of the war, will have to be content with $2,500 to $3,500.

The days of big pay for the ball players are over.

RESOLUTION.

For the first time in the twenty-five years of its business existence, The Kingston Co-operative Savings and Loan Association has lost one of its directors by reason of death. Mr. John J. Campbell served upon this board for upwards of 22 years, giving freely of his time and valuable experience in the interests of all its members. To help in the upbuilding of the community in which he lived was always a distinct source of pleasure to him, and in our Association work he found an opportunity for service which he gave faithfully to the great benefit of its members. Therefore, be it

Resolved, that in the death of Mr. Campbell this Association realizes the loss of a faithful, wise and painstaking officer, and that we, his associates upon the Board of Directors, have lost a genial and valued friend and adviser; and further

Resolved, that these resolutions be recorded in the minutes of this special meeting; be published in The Kingston Daily Freeman, and that a copy be transmitted to the bereaved family.

THANKSGIVING DAY
EVENTS IN CITY

There will be something going on practically all day on Thanksgiving Day—Thursday—in Kingston, and residents looking for a good time will not find it necessary to leave town.

The morning opens at 9 o'clock with the annual cross country run under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. The start will be made from the Y. M. C. A. building and the finish will also be at the building. There are a number of schools having entries and a fast race is assured.

There will also be church services in some of the city churches, and a further account will be found in another column.

Special features will also be shown at the local opera houses. At the Kingston Opera House the feature film will be "The Tarantula," while at the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium will be shown "The Alien or The Sign of the Cross." At the Orpheum there will be vaudeville and photoplays.

In the afternoon at the Athletic Field there will be a hot football game when high school players of bygone days will meet the high school team. Football fans are promised a game well worth seeing.

No Ashes Collected.

No ashes will be collected tomorrow in the Third, Fourth and Fifth wards, but the same will be taken up on Friday with the Sixth and Seventh wards by the street department.

First Musical Comedy.

No English writer of light opera ever surpassed Dr. F. Osmond Carr's music in gay sparkle, and that he was a thoroughly good musician is sufficiently indicated by the fact that he held degrees in music from both Oxford and Cambridge, his doctorate being awarded by the latter university. Among his other achievements must be placed the invention of the first musical comedy, "In Town." Besides "doing" the music, Dr. Carr invented the scheme around which the piece was written.

Many readers will remember his "Marguerite," which swept over all Europe like wildfire with its irresistible swing and elan some twenty years ago and more. A song of the dashing type, it had the gayest and most intoxicating melody, and not only its native land, but the continent and the United States, succumbed speedily to its charm.

The composer related that the famous song was composed in the early hours one morning after he had been watching all night by the bedside of his little daughter, who was seriously ill.—London Globe.

OVERTIME

STRAINS EYES

Working overtime under artificial light, whether in the office or shop, isn't conducive to the preserving of one's vision in good condition.

At this time of the year with the short days and heavy rush of work YOUR eyes may need glasses—may not drop in and have us examine your vision NOW before the strain and any defect produces really serious results?

Our advice is CANDID—whether you need glasses or not. Our charges are moderate.

That's about what you think after you've heard John McCormack's Victor Record of "The Sunshine of Your Smile." It's the kind of song which appeals to everyone.

Europe has already been captured by the beauty of this song, and now that John McCormack has added his rarest to the loveliness of its melody and sentiment, we expect a large portion of America to capitulate immediately.
